

DULL YEAR PREDICTED
FOR GOLFERS IN U. S.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.

New York, April 22.—This is to be another dull golf year. Baseball competition will go on, but golf has been predicted to be a very quiet season. Undoubtedly a few Red Cross exhibitions will be sprinkled through the season, but the dictators of the game in this country have decided that until the war is over golf must remain peopled.

In 1916, at the last national amateur championship since America entered the war, golf reached the zenith of its power in the field of American sport. On that bright Saturday in September, 1916, when Charles Evans of Chicago won the national amateur championship, the Merion Cricket Club in Philadelphia, it could be truthfully stated that golf had "arrived" in America.

Ten thousand wild-eyed enthusiasts trailed Evans and the Gardner at Merion and the men who built up the game in this country smiled with satisfaction. Then during the next spring America entered the war and golf has been wiped off the map. Many golfers think the dictators have made a mistake in taking all the title competition out of golf for the duration of the war.

While the Red Cross competition of last year kept the sport from being entirely buried it fell far short of maintaining the interest which had been developed up to the close of the 1916 season. The one bright feature of last year was the wonderful playing of the amateur matches. Golfers, with his partner, Jesse Gallford, of some great golf and large galleries followed the pair. In Chicago, the Western association held its championships but this year even the Western association gave way to the pressure from the national organization, and has called off all its title meets.

Following Red Cross matches and national championship matches is as different as watching race horse events and watching them run for a $25,000 stake.

The state and national championships are the backbone of golf interest. They are the world series of the sport and every golfer goes at his own game with more interest because he knows that his competitors to keep him on his toes. With these dead, the interest of the average golfer is gone.

Something to look forward to in the future is international competition between British and American golfers. Such a match has been arranged for the war is bringing the countries together in such a way that comradeship will be continued. A world's amateur golf championship on a grand scale is being planned for the next year. It will undoubtedly be one of the many manifestations of friendship after the war has been won.

NEW FACES TO APPEAR IN WESTERN CIRCUIT

Kansas City, Mo., April 22.—Several new faces will appear when the Western league opens its 1918 season May 1. Among them will be the new club owner, Spencer Arthur Abbott, president of the Topeka club. There will be five new managers, Rudy Hulbert will pilot Joplin, Johnny Nee will pilot the Topeka team, Bill Jackson has signed to manage the Omaha club, and Rex Williams will head St. Joseph. Otto Jacobs may be field manager for Hutchinson and Blaine Benson may be made captain, which post he has lost season.

The three veteran managers of the league will be "Ducky" Holmes of St. Paul, Jack Coffey of Des Moines, and Joe Berger of Wichita.

The new club president at Topeka is a veteran player and manager. Abbott has managed several teams at Topeka but this is his first venture as an owner. The only owner-manager of the league will be Holmes, the original "Ducky" of major league fame, who has transferred his franchise back to St. Paul from Lincoln.

Besides his new manager, Owner John Savage of Joplin will have a new secretary this year. Harry C. Spratt, who was secretary of Jack Holland during Holland's last few weeks in St. Joseph and during the last half of the season at Hutchinson, last year. Manager Holbert, a Western league player, who has worked in the majors and in Class AA leagues for years. He managed the Columbus club of the American association several years ago.

Manager Johnny Nee of Topeka is a former Central league manager and is a Missourian, coming from Springfield. In his three years as manager of the Dayton club of the Central league, Nee won two pennants. He will bring to the Topeka club several former Central league stars, among them Pitchers Haines and Clark of Springfield, Turner of Evansville and Alworth of Richmond; catchers Hanger of Richmond and Kelly of Evansville; infielder Cleveland of Springfield, and Outfielder Hanger of Evansville. In addition, he has seven former Denver players to pick from, among them Thel Bassman, Wulff.

Nee will play second base.

It is often necessary to change a line-up in order to change its ways.

another pouch of
Real GRAVELLY Chewing Plug

Uncle Sam's Boys don't ask for much in the way of comforts—but good tobacco they must have. A few cents spent for Real Gravelly will buy more tobacco satisfaction than many times the money in ordinary plug.

Give any man a chew of Real Gravelly Plug, and he will tell you that's the kind to send. Send the best! Ordinary plug is false economy. It costs less per week to chew Real Gravelly, because a small chew of it lasts a long while.

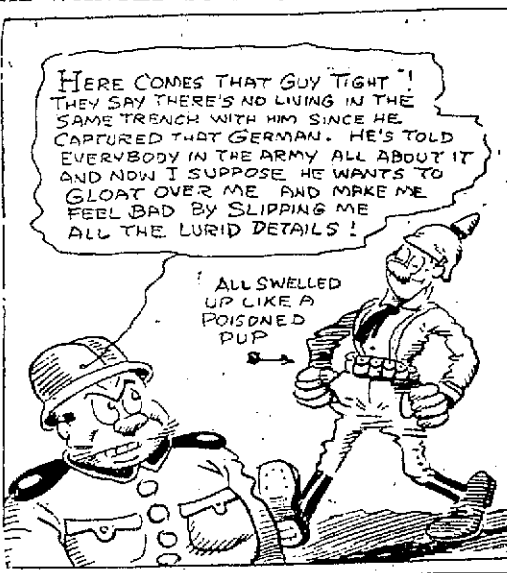

If you smoke a pipe, slice Gravelly with your knife and add a little to your smoking tobacco. It will give flavor—improve your smoke.

SEND YOUR FRIEND IN THE U. S. SERVICE A POUCH OF GRAVELLY

Dealers all around here carry it in 10c pouches. A 3c stamp will put it into his hands in any Training Camp or Seaport of the U. S. A. Even "over there" a 3c stamp will take it to him. Your dealer will supply envelope and give you official directions how to address it.

High Cattle Prices
Accompany
High Beef Prices

If consumers are to pay less for beef, live-stock raisers naturally will receive less for cattle.

If farmers are paid more for live stock, consumers will necessarily pay more for meat.

Swift & Company pays for cattle approximately 90 per cent of the price received for beef and by-products. The remaining 10 per cent pays for dressing, freight to market, operation of distributing houses, and in most cases, delivery to the retailer. Net profits also have to come out of this 10 per cent.

This margin cannot be squeezed arbitrarily without danger of crippling the only effective means of performing the complex service of converting cattle into meat and distributing this meat to the fighting forces and to consumers.

Swift & Company's net profit on beef during 1917 was only 1/4 of a cent per pound. On all products, it was a little less than four cents on each dollar of sales. Complete elimination of these profits would not affect appreciably retail prices of meat, or farm prices of live stock.

Swift & Company will be glad to co-operate in devising methods that will improve conditions in the meat and live stock industry.

NEUTRALITY.
Six nations in Europe, two in South and Central America, and a few scattering republics are the only neutral nations in this great war. The rest are with the allies or the central powers unless you wish to refer to poor, unfortunate, misguided Russia, in Europe, Spain, Holland, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, and Argentina and Mexico, the leaders on this continent, still maintain neutrality.

How long Spain will maintain her neutrality is a matter of much conjecture. Already German submarines have sunk Spanish ships in sufficient numbers to threaten the industries and commerce of the country. The sentiment at the court at Madrid is frankly pro-German. Germany has, however, created a strong feeling in her favor, and it finds expression in unmitigated uprisings against the government, backed by the army and the Wilhelmstrasse. There has arisen recently a wave of revolution against Germany. Only last month the United States made an agreement by which the armies of Pershing would receive a portion of their supplies from Spain, and in return Spain was to get cotton and other raw products from America.

The Netherlands, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden are undoubtedly maintaining neutrality largely through fear of Germany. The Netherlands government is now greatly troubled for fear that Germany will make the taking of Dutch ships by America a pretext for a retaliation of that country. Danish ships have been sunk. Danish soldiers killed, but Denmark has endured it all with little murmuring. The court is said to be pro-German. The people by every virtue of the losses inflicted upon them are pro-ally. For a time the sentiment in Sweden was frankly pro-German, but it is supposed to have changed. Norway is strong in pro-ally feeling, but naturally fearful of the Teuton.

Exposure of the German plot last September showed plainly that the diplomatic circles in Argentina were pro-German. The situation there is peculiar. The army officers and government officials favor the cause of Germany; the people on the other hand, are pro-ally. Time and again had efforts been made to introduce a declaration of war against Germany, but it has not gone through. Germany is deluging the country with propaganda. The people at the railroads are being incited to strikes to prevent the shipments of grain to the allies. These strikes have, however, been bravely and if anything have increased the feeling of bitterness and anger against the Germans.

Mexico is neutral in so far as she has not declared her stand against any of the belligerents. It is well known that German money is being spent in the country, but the usual excuse is that it is for the cause of humanity, which does not make its entrance into the war probable.

The other countries which have not broken with the Teutons are Chile, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Paraguay and Venezuela. Fourteen altogether, that is the number of nations which remain, at least in name, neutral.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS.
One of the most encouraging features of the war situation is the amount of voluntary service that is being given. All over the country volunteer are meeting to work on bandages and dressings. Men in great numbers have enrolled with public safety committees, they serve on home guards, professional men give assistance in line with their training, public speakers contribute their ability to talk in public. There are today millions of people who are giving voluntary effort to public causes.

In times of peace we go along year after year without doing much community work. A few active people run the churches, improvement societies, and other community organizations. But those few people may get tired after years of faithful effort. If they drop out, there is frequently no one to take their places.

Everyone ought to have some little time he could put into community work. A business man said, the other day, that he was making it his practice to give two hours a day to war work. Now if a lot of business men would but give an hour a day, or even an evening a week, to community service, a lot of things would get done that have always been considered impossible.

We feel proud in Janesville of our pleasant and attractive community. But if some thousands would offer us their benefactions, we could easily suggest ways for wise expenditure for desirable improvements. Most towns have to work out their own problems and pay their own bills. If we have to hire everything done, we can only get the things that are absolutely needed.

If we have been devoting our whole time to selfish ends, let us feel ashamed of ourselves. The man or woman who is not giving some time regularly to some form of community effort is one who seeks to reap where he has not sown.

NATIONAL EFFICIENCY.
There is no royal road to national efficiency. It can't be accomplished by legislation nor by forming societies. To achieve it will require some very notable changes in public sentiment, and habits of living and thinking.

One of the first aims to be held in view is a higher value on scholarship in our schools. Now it does not always follow that the good scholar will become an efficient man or woman. But as a general rule, the pupil who learns his lessons in school learns the lessons of life afterward, and performs his task in the world successfully.

How much value do we place on good scholarship? Do we value it as highly as athletic skill?

A metropolitan newspaper the other day reported the student debate between two leading colleges, giving perhaps four inches to the event, though one of the colleges was in its own local field. The same paper would give probably four or five columns to the annual football contest. That estimate of values meant that the editor thought the public is much more interested in athletics than in scholarship.

If we want scholarship valued more highly, let us honor it more. If winning a high mark simply means that a pupil receives a quiet word of approval from his teacher he may not feel he has achieved much. If he gets his recognition in the form of a prize awarded before a crowded and applauding hall, he sees that after all the public does appreciate scholarship.

The recognition for good scholarship can not be too prominent, too emphatic. Bring the names of honor pupils to the Gazette. We will print them. Let us all try to make the young people feel that scholarship is the first step toward efficiency and success.

OVER THE TOP.
Wisconsin has gone over the top in the third Liberty loan just as Rock county is going way over the top and every other community in the state.

The work of selling "machine guns" to the rural residents is a half of what was anticipated. One man of distinct Teutonic temperament is wearing a machine gun badge and proud of it. It is the first badge he ever bought, but he says it will not be the last. It takes more than snow and cold and bad roads to dampen the enthusiasm of the flying squadrons and they are given warm greetings wherever they appear. Meanwhile the odds and ends of Janesville are being picked up and the Boy Scouts are asking for the opportunity to turn loose their energies to bring that total up to the million dollar mark now set.

THOSE GARDENS.

When it snows on April 23 the enthusiasm for the gardens sort of ebbs, but it must be remembered that the weather seems to be fighting mankind just as the Huns are over there, and that in time we will win out "over here" just as the allies will win out across the water. Do not become discouraged and that garden will be all the better for having been snowed on and rained on after the spring plowing. These war gardens are going to help win the war.

A popular author has written a novel entitled "The Restless Sex." Don't know which sex he means, but it might be the one that can't sit down fifteen minutes in the parlor without yawning and going out to the lodge.

It is estimated that about 10 per cent of the property-owners have not paid their income tax. These are smart people who prefer to pay the tax later and a large penalty in addition.

If the newspapers denounce the aircraft delays, they encourage the Germans, and if they don't denounce them and the delays keep on, they also encourage the Germans.

The usual sublime confidence is shown by the motorists at railroad crossings, that they can beat the train off the track, with the usual results.

Complaint is made about the scarcity of miles, but there are plenty of 'em in congress.

Just Folks

A HOUSE WITHOUT A GARDEN.
A house without a garden wouldn't suit my taste at all.
I need the mornin' glories trailin' tangled on the wall,
An' I need a clump o' roses, an' the peonies, white an' red,
An' a patch o' scarlet poppies an' the pansies in a bed,
'Cause they're joys that I've been used to since the days of long ago,
When I played about the garden that the mother treasured so.

There never was a summer that my memory recalls
That we spent without a garden, livin' just in plastered walls.
Why, the hollyhocks an' daisies, an' the tulips in the spring,
An' a bush o' purple lilacs have my childhood under wing.
Nor I spent it all among 'em with the mother at my side,
Today if I should miss 'em I should think my soul had died.

A house without a garden is a house that's incomplete.
An' I've got to have the blossoms of the good old fashioned flowers,
An' the friendship of the roses just 't white away the hours,
'Cause the mother trained me to 'em in the days when I was small,
An' a house without a garden wouldn't suit me now at all.

U. S. ARMY GENERAL FINDS QUICK STOMACH RELIEF

Brigadier General Gordon, U. S. A., Bestows Unlimited Praise On BANTONIC For Stomach Relief.

BANTONIC is pleasant to the taste and gives speedy relief from dyspepsia and indigestion. Very respectfully, Brigadier General, E. G. Gordon, U. S. A.

"Speedy relief." That is what General Gordon experiences and it is what you will experience if you give BANTONIC a trial.

Nearly all forms of stomach misery—indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, belching, flatulence, sour stomach, and that painful bloated feeling which so frequently follows a hearty meal—all these are almost always caused by the formation of too much acid in the stomach and bowels. BANTONIC neutralizes the excess of acidity. It is "first aid" to the digestive organs whenever there is the slightest disturbance—takes the entire tract so that you can eat what you like and digest your food without discomfort. BANTONIC drives the secret Bile acids out of the body—and the Bile acids with it. Costs only a cent or two a day to use. It is guaranteed to bring relief or you get your money back! Who's Who in Today's News

MARSHALL VON HINDENBURG.

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, German's "Iron Man," is seventy. He was in retirement in Hanover. Gossip said it was because he had outplayed the Kaiser in war. The story is that he let the Kaiser win, then remarked, "I could have driven you off the map."

Gen. Hindenburg. He is described as "dignified in carriage and ladylike in manner." Six feet tall, grim looking, his upper lip adorned with a military mustache, the German war giant has been called by the Kaiser "the first of my generals."

A huge wooden figure of him in Berlin has been driven full of iron nails by admirers. This fantastic monument to Germany's commander is regarded with wonder by the German people.

I have a six-year-old son. Who listens to table conversations. The other day he heard us talking about the new discussion concerning the origin of the human race. And questioning the Wood theory. About an hour afterward my son came to me and in a confidential tone said: "Daddy, I heard you say you believed in the old fashioned Darwin theory—that human beings descended from monkeys." "Yes," I replied, "that is what I said." "Well," he asked, "am I a human being?" "Certainly you are a human being," I answered, studying the matter. In another hour he opened my door and tossed me a peanut.

Young Girls' Corsets

It is a great mistake to think any cheap corset is good enough for a young girl.

Her figure will develop into the shape of the corset she wears.

It is folly to buy a badly designed corset for her.

To what base uses some of our institutions are falling! Now it is proposed to make the effect of Coney Island a supply base for the army.

Several years ago a play, called "Mrs. Warren's Profession," written by G. B. Shaw, the bold Irishman, was driven from the stage in America.

Because it was indecent and exploited a matter which was not fit for the public.

Now the play has returned. And is making the biggest kind of a hit.

The people simply love it. And it is the same old play. Without a line changed.

Which goes to show something—We don't know what—but something. If civilization keeps on advancing, it may catch up with Shaw yet.

"Have you ever stopped to think," asks one of our serious thinkers, "how tired a wad of chewing gum must get along toward the end of the day?" Not as tired as some of these serious thinkers get along toward the end of the day.

BET HOOVER WILL SOON BE ESTABLISHING A SENATOR REEDLESS DAY.

JOHNSTOWN

Johnstown, April 22.—A crowd of citizens enjoyed the patriotic rally held at the school house Friday evening. The speakers were Messrs. Welch and Pierce of Janesville, and we must not forget the children that did their part by speaking and singing.

Paper hangers are busy at the Jones and W. Hall homes.

William Bell is ill at present writing. His many friends hope there will be a change for the better.

Sunday guests at the C. Craig home were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Piper and mother of Whitewater, Messrs. and Mesdames Frank Aubrey, and Eva Roberts of Deansman.

Mrs. Margaret Piper of Whitewater is enjoying a visit with her brother and family, C. Craig.

William Brummond lost one of his best horses Monday morning. It being sick only a few hours.

While Mr. and Mrs. Fern Lerwill were attending the patriotic rally in Whitewater someone took their new Overland car, but it was found next morning a short distance from the grounds in good condition.

Miss Lizzie White has returned home from a week's visit with Whitewater friends.

The East Red Cross group met Friday afternoon with Mrs. James Norton and, glad to say, it was one of the largest meetings ever held. They spent the afternoon doing quilts. At five o'clock a luncheon was served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. Smith.

The Center Red Cross group will meet with Mrs. Glenn Austin, Friday afternoon, April 26. All are cordially invited.

Sheboygan, Wis., April 23.—The baby week campaign will be opened here May 1st. A clinic will be in operation three days at the Sheboygan, Lincoln and Jefferson schools. Babies up to a year old will be weighed and measured at the clinic.

PREMIER ZABEL KEEPS SEAT BY BIG VOTE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Copenhagen, April 22.—Premier Zabel and his ministry retain a majority of the seats in the Folketing, according to early returns from the Danish election yesterday. The voters returned thirty-two radical and thirty-nine socialist members. These parties have held joint power during the last four years and are credited with having kept Denmark out of the war.

The opposition party, led by former Premier Christensen, elected sixty-eight members. The opposition party, led by former Premier Christensen, elected sixty-eight members. It was Denmark's first election under the new constitution which permits women to vote.

SALESMEN TO GATHER IN DETROIT TOMORROW

Detroit, April 23.—The link between the war and big business, will be the principal theme at the World's Salesmanship congress, which opens its third annual convention here tomorrow. The convention will conclude Saturday afternoon. Probably one hundred short talks on different factors in salesmanship, will be made during the four day convention session. Considerable interest attaches to the address of Herbert A. Casson, of London, who is expected to tell this country's salesmen how England is meeting business problems created by the conflict. Roger W. Babson, a noted statistician, also will speak before the convention.

A sales expert of many of the country's biggest industries began arriving today. Virtually every one of them will tell of selling problems that have developed since last year's meeting. A few of those on the program for short talks are E. R. Kelsey, Toledo; James D. Andrews, secretary of the American Academy of Jurisprudence, New York; A. W. Donavan, Rock Island, Mass.; Edward B. Sander, secretary-treasurer, New England Safety Council; W. E. Hotchkiss, Minneapolis; William R. Malone, New York; W. K. Rutherford, Akron, Ohio; and Norval A. Hawkins, Detroit.

Evansville News

Evansville, April 23.—Miss Ruth Chase, accompanied by Mr. Wiley of Fond du Lac, arrived in Janesville today, where they went to care for Mr. Boyle of Fond du Lac, who was taken ill in that southern city. Just as soon as Mr. Wiley is able to be brought home, which is thought will be in about a week, the party will return in a private car. Miss Chase has just completed a nurse's training and though she was chosen to go is a signal honor.

Mrs. Frank West and Mrs. Claude Rogers left the latter part of last week for a visit in Chicago.

Mrs. Chester Miller left today for Mount Clemens, Mich., where she has been to enter the sanatorium there.

Mrs. Alice Woodworth is spending a few days at her home near Black River Falls.

Carl Rasmussen of North Dakota, who was called to Evansville last week by the death of his aged father, is spending a short time here visiting his brother, John Rasmussen, and old friends.

Mrs. Fred W. Tolles of Milwaukee after a short stay with Evansville relatives, left Friday for Janesville to visit her sister, Mrs. A. C. Thorpe, on Milton avenue.

Miss Minnie Apple is ill with the measles at her home on East Main street.

Frank West left Monday on a business trip to New York City.

Miss Edith Van Wart, accompanied by her friend Miss Michael Carpenter, was down from the university to spend the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brink, who have been the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Brink, left today for their home in Prairie du Chien.

Miss Margaret Miller is ill at her home on West Liberty street.

Mrs. Arthur Devine, who has been quite ill of late, is much improved.

Brodhead News

Brodhead, April 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Combs are rebuilding their cottage home on the south side.

Erwin Stair was home from Camp Grant to spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stair.

Miss Daisy Pleck of Janesville spent Sunday with Brodhead relatives.

Henry Schneider spent Sunday here and returned to Camp Grant.

Mrs. Nettie Armstrong Dawson and little daughter of Tulsa, Okla., who have been visiting relatives here, departed Monday for points in Colorado.

Sergeant Rodney Baxter spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Baxter, and returned to Camp Grant, Monday.

Mrs. L. L. Stone of Monroe came Monday to visit her cousin, Mrs. C. P. Mooney.

Mrs. C. B. Atkinson was a visitor in Monroe, Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Worthum of Fork River, Canada, who was the guest of her brothers, the Messrs. Rathbun, took her departure Monday.

B. L. Rolfe is home from a stay of some months at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. R. Stewart, and family, in Marshfield.

William Taylor of Milwaukee came Monday and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Woodling and others.

Mrs. Helen Beckwith of Milwaukee spent Sunday at the home of her mother.

Frank Davis was in Janesville, Monday, to see his sister, Mrs. Dunwiddie, at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Master and Mrs. Mary E. White of Milwaukee spent a week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Gardner and returned to their home on Monday.

Mrs. Llewellyn Pleck went to Janesville on Monday where she will take treatments at the hospital.

Jimmy Wise, belloy, says, "I have never worked in a hotel where there are so many large sunny rooms as we have at the Wisconsin."

Large, Livable, Sunny, Rooms

Hardly anybody who has stayed at the Wisconsin has left the Hotel without paying us a compliment on our rooms.

When the hotel was built it was arranged to please. That meant that the rooms had to be constructed practically and they had to be cheerful. From the single rooms without a bath to the largest most elaborate suites this idea has been carried out.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, April 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bemis motored to Janesville on Tuesday of last week and we are pleased to note that Mrs. Bemis is improving in health and hope for a continuation of same.

Mrs. Herman Long was an Evansville visitor on Friday last.

Harry Silverthorn and family of Oronville were Sunday guests of his mother, Mrs. G. D. Silverthorn.

Next Sunday being field day for the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, a gentleman from Madison will speak at the Christian church in the evening.

It is asked that there may be a large attendance.

Elmer Spencer of Janesville, spent Sunday at the home of his father, Elder I. R. Spencer and family.

Francis Bemis and wife and little son, Sydney, were in Whitewater over Sunday as guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Fish. Mr. and Mrs. Bemis have disposed of much of their household goods and what they have decided to keep for future use they have packed, ready for shipment to Seattle, where they will spend the summer with a sister of Mrs. Bemis and will take their departure for that city in a few days.

The Misses Florence and Myrtle Honeysett and cousin, Clayton Honeysett, and Allan Silverthorn, motored to Janesville on Sunday afternoon, where Clayton, who was granted a twenty-four hour leave of absence, boarded the afternoon train, going by way of Milwaukee, to return to the Great Lakes naval training station.

Miss Jennie Christianson came up from Beloit on Friday and was a guest between trains at the home of Mrs. Quimby. Her sister, Miss Avinda, returned with her and both are now employed in or near Beloit.

Messrs. Roger Cunningham and Dougherty spoke to a full house on Friday evening on the Liberty loan question, and we understand that about $3,000 worth of Liberty loan bonds were sold that evening.

Mrs. Lucy Corey Bemis and daughter, Miss Fannie, recently arrived from Port Orange, Florida, where they had spent the past winter, enroute for their home in Minnesota. From Thursday until Sunday they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bemis, then going to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jervie Bemis, where they will remain as guests until this (Monday) afternoon. Then they will go to Janesville for a few days' visit among old friends and relatives, when they will continue their homeward journey, going as far as Minneapolis, at which city they expect to arrive on Saturday. Here they will spend a few days with Dr. Bemis, also Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bemis and will then proceed on their way to their home in Wheaton, Minn. The many friends of Mrs. Bemis will regret that her stay here could not have been longer, giving them an opportunity of seeing her, as few were aware of her being here until she had gone.

Dr. Lacey is reported to be improving, although rather slowly. The condition of Mr. Harnack remains about the same. Mrs. Kate Meehan is experiencing much difficulty with her hand as a result of blood poisoning and Mrs. John Honeysett is considered very dangerously ill this (Monday) afternoon.

Many from this place attended the funeral of the late John Roehl, which was perhaps the largest funeral ever held in the town of Center and was held from the home at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon, after which they proceeded to the Center church, where Rev. Wenzell delivered a most excellent sermon, speaking in both the German and English languages and paid a fitting tribute of respect to the memory of the departed. Many and beautiful were the flowers, which required a separate auto to take them from the home to the church. The pallbearers were: Julius Yeager, Herman Quade, Charles Schroeder, Frank Benash, Charles Kopke and Otto Kersten, all old friends of the deceased. Interment was made in the Center cemetery. The sincere sympathy of all goes out to the bereaved family in this, their first great affliction. He is survived by a wife and eleven children.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I work for a young man very attractive but he is married. He likes to tease me and I like to have him. We don't neglect our work, but there are times when he talks to me, and I go to the picture show with him and suggest all sorts of things that we might do just to see what I will say. I laugh at him and say, "Of course I'll go," and then when it is time to go home we just get all about it. There is another girl in the office who is always complaining about how she feels and how she looks and how she is doing. She always acts shocked when I do what she does. I think she is anything wrong in our having a little fun when we are not busy as long as we never do any of the things he talks about.

ANNE.

Taking during business hours is dangerous because it very often leads to neglecting work. At the same time, better work can be done when there is a cheerful atmosphere than when there is a feeling of restraint. Be moderate in your joking and do not indulge when you are working. Also remember that you cannot be too careful in your relationship with a married man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for over a year and we have been the best of friends, but he never said he loved me and I did not think he did. I will have to go to camp very soon and now he has expressed his love for me and wants me to marry him.

fore he goes away. I love this boy, but I don't love him for me and I am a little afraid to marry him now because I am so afraid that he would be sorry after the war is over. I don't know what is best. Will you please advise me?

Wait until the war is over and if the boy still wants you to marry him, then you can be sure he loves you. I think it is a great mistake for young people to marry only to separate in a few days.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man who cannot get a girl and I would like a nice girl because I am lonely. I am twenty years old and am nearly six feet tall. My complexion is fair and I have blonde hair. I have an income each month besides my army pay which I would like to share with some good, kind-hearted girl. I have met girls in town, but it seems they all have soldier friends. Please advise me.

PRIVATE N. V. J.

Express your desire to meet girls to your young man friends and undoubtedly they can help you. They can ask girls for you and arrange to have you meet a girl.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you please tell me of some way to make the hair grow thick and long?

BOBBIE.

Brush the hair thoroughly every morning and night and massage the scalp with vasoline or a hair tonic increases the growth.

Answer to "J.": (1) Yes, you can ask the clerk to withhold the publication of the certificate for a while. He may do so. You do not need to have your father's consent.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there any way to get dimples? U. V. W.

Dimples cannot be made. Some people are born with them.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

Do not carry an umbrella in a carriage or an automobile, nor protect yourself from the sun with a carriage parasol when driving.

CHRIS: When two ladies are entertaining together, the address of the one at whose home the party is to be held is given on the invitation; therefore it is unnecessary to say at the home of Miss Smith. Your invitations could be worded thus: "Miss Jane Vincent Smith, Miss Winifred Brown and I have on Thursday evening, November seventeen, at eight o'clock, Six forty-four Welton Avenue. Either of the hostesses may invite people that the other does not know. This respect each may act as if she were giving the party alone. However, they should consult each other regarding the invitation list and make it as mutually agreeable as possible. It may be asked, and so that there will be no duplicates.

N. E.: It was very improper for you to accept the shelter of a strange man's umbrella when you were out in the shower, even though you might otherwise have ruined your hat. Surely you could have passed in some covered doorway near by until the shower was over.

It puzzled her that she could not define it.

Plushing with deep rose, Claire waved and said, and again, embarrassed, as everyone does during the interminable minutes the ganglank is being fused over and orders given so that the coming of the waiting ones can meet with more than welcoming glances.

"John Reaves!"

"Claire Barton!"

They spoke together as their hands gripped, then laughed at their duplicate greetings.

"I'm glad to see you!" Claire felt how insufficient her words were, yet the surprise of Reaves' sudden changed appearance and the embarrassment she felt at her own situation made her almost inarticulate. Reaves' manner was in clear contrast.

"Now can you wait a few minutes while I get my luggage passed. Then we'll get a cab and go right up to the Plaza for dinner," he said.

He didn't wait for an answer, but backed Claire up in a protected corner away from drays and automobiles, lifted his hat and waved off toward the customs men this masterful brisk, altogether new John Reaves.

HOUSECLEANING HELPS

Add a little bluing to soap suds and your white woodwork never looks grimy or yellow.

Unscented soap, which comes in a can, cleans your polished floors and leaves them as "shiny" as ever.

Wallpaper cleaner will clean your white shades and saves laundry bills. It usually is sold at the store, rub with dry whitening.

For a whitewashed wall that you wish to make wallpaper stick to, use strong vinegar, applying it with a whitewash brush.

When rolling linoleum to put away, roll with the stamped side out and edge will not curl up when put down again, but will cling close to the floor. Needs no tacks.

All nails and hooks used in kitchens, bathrooms or where damp towels or cloths will be hung on should be dipped in white enamel paint and dried before being put up. Then there will be no rusted towels and clothes to be cleaned.

To Clean Brass—Dip one ounce of oxalic acid in drug store and dissolve in one pint of soft water. Apply with flannel cloth. Wear rubber gloves when using this.

Washpaper Dough—One quart flour, one half cup soda, three tablespoons ammonia, one pint rain or boiled water. Mix and steam one half hour in slightly greased pan. Cut in blocks and knead thoroughly. Keep in airtight box until ready to use.

To Brighten Gilt Frames—Take sufficient powdered sulphur to give good tinge to about one and one-half cups water and in this boil four or five bruised onions. Pour off liquid, using same when cold with soft brush on any gilt article needing restoring.

WHICH SAVED THE WHITE-SAVES.

Rice Omelet—To four well-beaten eggs add two-thirds cup cold cooked rice, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, beat well. Heat butter in skillet, pour in mixture in, let brown on one side, turn, place on hot platter. This may be served with powdered sugar sprinkled over the omelet.

Scoured Brown Bread—One and one-half cups cornmeal, one and one-half cups barley flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon soda, two cups sour milk.

WHY WOMEN DREAD OLD AGE

Don't worry about old age. Don't worry about being in other people's eyes when you are getting old. Keep your body in good condition and you can be as hale and hearty in your old days as you were when you were young. You will be glad to see you.

The kidneys and bladder are the organs of health and vitality. Keep them in proper working condition. Drive the poisonous wastes from the system and you will find that the system will always be in perfect working order. Your spirits will be invigorated, your muscles made strong and your face have more of the look of youth and health.

MOVIE STAR ARRIVES IN ST. LOUIS TODAY READY TO SELL LIBERTY BONDS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Miss Margaret Clark, one of the most popular moving picture stars in the country, who with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks has been assigned to speak in the St. Louis Federal Reserve District in connection with the launching of the Third Liberty Loan drive, arrived in this city today to speak to St. Louisans and otherwise aid the Local Liberty Loan officials in making the campaign a success.

CLUB WOMEN DISCUSS MANY WAR ACTIVITIES

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Racine, April 23.—What women are doing and what more they can do to help the boys in the trenches "over there" held the interest of club women of southeastern Wisconsin here today. The sixteenth annual convention of the First District Federation of Women's clubs convened for a two day session. Wartime subjects of discussion carried with them elimination of usual extravagant entertainment.

Fables of the Friendly Forest

Well, that's a great relief," exclaimed Uncle Lucky, as the ambulance drove away with Old Man Weasel, who had tried to eat up Billy Bunny and his kind uncle in the story before this, and would have swallowed them both if the little rabbit hadn't hit him with a cork bullet from his popgun, you remember. Of course, it was very kind of Billy Bunny to call up the ambulance to take away the wicked weasel, after he had sprained his ankle, but it was also very wise. For who wants a wicked weasel around, even if he has a sprained ankle and can't do you any harm?

Well, after everything was quiet and the Policeman Dog had taken a drink of cider and a cigar, the two little rabbits sat down on the front porch, for it was too late to go to bed, or maybe it was too early. For the first faint streaks of daylight were spreading over the sky, and by the time Uncle Lucky could unlace his shoes and untie his red cravat and wind his gold watch, it would be time to get dressed again. So he and Billy Bunny sat down and waited for breakfast, and by and by the Japanese cook came out to sweep off the front porch, and when he saw Mr. Lucky's left hindfoot and his nephew, Billy Bunny, sitting there, he ran back into the kitchen and dropped two eggs on the floor and put the tea into the coffee grinder and the salt into the sugar bowl. He was so excited because he thought it must be "way past breakfast time."

And then the old gentleman rabbit began to sing:

"Never hurry—makes you worry,"

Worry makes you thin.

If you're clever you'll endeavor Never to begin."

And I guess the Japanese cook heard him, for in a few minutes breakfast was ready, and this time the eggs were dropped on toast instead of the floor.

By and by, after Uncle Lucky had smoked his cigar, he and Billy Bunny went out to the garage and cranked up the Luckymobile and went for a ride. And when they had gone for a mile or less they came across their old friend the Circus Elephant. And, oh dear me! He was an awful sight. His left eye had a bandage over it and his trunk was rolled up in cotton and his left hind foot had an old carpet slipper on and his tail was done up in a bundle and he was weeping great big tears, for he felt dreadfully miserable.

"What is the matter?" asked Billy Bunny, as Uncle Lucky stopped the automobile.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" sobbed the big animal. "I was in a Fourth of July celebration and the Roman candles got mixed up with the skyrockets and the cannon crackers with the tin wheels, and the first thing I knew I was hit in two million nine hundred and a few dozen places, and if it hadn't been for a pink cross nurse I'd be a dead elephant by this time."

"Get into the automobile," said Uncle Lucky, "and we'll take you home with us, and in the mean time I'll tell you who broke the springs in the automobile, unless you guess who did before tomorrow night."

PAINLESS PATRIOTISM.

There is one form of patriotism which does not make a strong appeal to me.

It is the high sounding, painless patriotism who wishes he or she were in position to make some great sacrifice.

For instance, I heard a woman who had four daughters say that she wished they were all sons so that she might send them to the front.

In the group to whom she spoke, there were two people with sons or brothers who had not gone to the front.

She evidently felt she was rebuking them by her patriotism, showing them what she would do in their places.

Perhaps they needed a rebuke. But I don't think she was the one to give it.

May she would have sent four sons to the front with a smile. No one could prove she would have, and no one could prove she wouldn't. The naked fact remained that she was altogether too comfortable and safe, in the sex of her children, to boast of what she would do, to mothers who were actually facing the crisis.

"I wish my sons were grown up," is also a favorite assertion among women with boys of very tender years.

I notice that women with sons within five years of the danger limit have felt enough of the real anxiety not to be so basty.

Another is: "I wish I were a man. I'd have been at the front long ago."

Maybe you would, and maybe you wouldn't.

Anyway, you are not a man, and isn't it rather graceless to take advantage of that security, to boast?

If people want to make big sacrifices, there are plenty lying about. If a man doesn't scratch the dogfish, I'll tell you who broke the springs in the automobile, unless you guess who did before tomorrow night.

It is just a reminder to those who work off their patriotism by saying what they would do if—that sort of patriotism is too easy to be admirable.

they do not use is saved for consumption in France and does not go to swell a surplus for those less patriotically inclined.

Miss Abby Mariatt, director of home economics for the federal government, and Miss Emma Conley, state leader of home demonstration agents, are speaking constantly in the interests of wheat conservation. At the close of an address by Miss Mariatt at Abington recently the audience unanimously agreed to fill a car with wheat if the state council would send an empty car to the village.

In Massachusetts pledge cards have been issued by the state food administrator. They read, "I pledge myself to use no wheat flour or wheat products in my household from now on, unless the harvest is good in the case of sickness." Idaho and Texas have agreed to go "wheat dry" and forty-two counties in Arkansas have voted to give up all the wheat flour they have on hand and send it to France.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

CARDIO-VASCULAR DEGENERATION

The most widespread organic disease in America is cardio-vascular degeneration, and the vast majority of people who labor under the functional disturbance only. Of course, that is quite true. Organic disease expresses itself by functional disturbance that is another way of saying symptoms.

Men undergoing for the first time a careful physical examination, as for army service or for insurance, are often surprised to learn that they have some functional disturbance named, perhaps, by cardio-vascular degeneration, or may be a trace of albumin or blood pressure a little too high or inability to hold the breath a few seconds, or faulty heart action.

Such men are surprised by the adverse report of the examining physician. They profess to believe that their health has been alright up to the time of the examination. But what the average man considers normal physical condition for one of his age.

"Oh, yes," the patient with cardio-vascular degeneration grudgingly admits when cross-examined by the doctor, "I have some trouble, more or less, occasional headaches, a little rheumatism, and such things, but not bad enough to have a doctor."

What is this cardio-vascular degeneration? It is literally heart-artery wearing out too early in life. It includes insidious heart muscle failure, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, chronic nephritis (Bright's disease), but not the imaginary "kidney trouble" the average reader has when his back aches, "strokes of paralysis." All of these varying expressions of cardio-vascular degeneration come, not suddenly nor without warning, but very slowly, insidiously and with years of the most unmistakable warnings. But unfortunately the victims of cardio-vascular disease usually prefer to interpret the warnings in their own way and to deal with them as Tom, Dick and Harry recommend. Not until they are really down and out do they at last feel ill enough to have medical care.

It is the most incomprehensible thing to my mind that most people, though shrewd enough in general affairs, seem determined to gamble with their health. They have lost the most precious thing in the world, and sarcasm labels upon the doctors who can't undo the harm wrought by years of reckless self-experimentation. What a fool I should be, knowing nothing of the mechanical part of an automobile, to drive the car to rack and ruin and never check the engine through the little trouble denials from time to time because of my own abuse and negligence!

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Discharging ear.

Please tell me the cause and effect upon health of a discharging ear.

ANSWER.—The cause may be the abscess or boil in the outer ear canal, but if the discharge has continued for some time, the middle ear is more likely chronic middle ear inflammation. Cause, usually infection reaching middle ear by way of nose or throat. A tube of catgut or rubber, or even a small piece of cotton, inserted into the ear, will draw out the discharge. The disease in the ear is bone disease and may become a septic focus whence it may spread to other parts of the body. It is a serious condition and should be treated by a specialist.

Free and Entombed Infancy.

What is the best way to keep a baby band, cotton or wool? (Mrs. A. D.)

ANSWER.—Wool, being elastic, retains its shape and is more comfortable. As soon as the navel dressing can be dispensed with, of course the baby band should be discarded.

Vaccination and Health.

When a group of children are vaccinated, does it work on some but not on others, is that an indication of good or bad blood? (M. D.)

ANSWER.—No. It may be faulty or old exhausted virus, faulty technique, natural immunity to smallpox inherited from parents and expanded into a reaction. Vaccination takes the second or third time. The state of the child's blood is immaterial so far as the success of vaccination is concerned.

Her Great Adventure

by Zoe Beckley

THE "LATE" JOHN REAVES.

It seemed to Claire that the cars would never get her to the steamer. And when the hour had passed, she waited through the press of traffic and produced her pass and been taken onto the pier she was told by a man in a cubby-hole office that the steamer had just put out and that "probably" wouldn't look for an hour.

There were others waiting and they walked about with fretful impatience. Most of them fell into conversation about the boat, its delay, the difficulties of meeting people on the pier, the obstacles in the way of getting pier permits nowadays, and other commonplace of chat between strangers who are trying to find their way. Claire was too excited to want to speak to anyone. Her own mixed-up affairs filled her mind. Whatever happened she was in a quandary. If Reaves did mean more than friendship, his letter and his "question," how could she bring herself to jilt poor Hiram Denny?

Reaves' "question" pertained to nothing but the gossip about herself and Lane, how should she ever get strength to go back to Turpers Junction—and Hiram?

At last, after what seemed hours, the great ship, graying and solid, sailed up the river, from downstream, busy tug puffed and whistled and bustled about with ropes. Slowly, slowly, the liner was hauled and pulled and turned and twisted until it lay in place beside the long dock, the waiting people bunching together and trying to pick out from the line of passengers the person they had come to meet.

Claire, on the edge of the crowd, searched the faces about for Reaves but could not find him anywhere. She began to feel an aching fear that he had not caught that steamer, and was surprised at the sharpness of her disappointment. If he came, surely he would be there among the waiting, calling men at the ship's rail, who seemed so eager to grasp the hands of the waiting ones.

A folded newspaper suddenly fell at her feet. Claire stared upward and saw a man wearing a rough tweed golf cap and waving his hand unmistakably to her. Reaves—Reaves at last! But what a different Reaves! No wonder Claire had not recognized him at first.

The gentle, unobtrusive, middle-aged man with the pipe and the quiet air seemed to have expanded into a tall, keen-eyed, nervously-active individual with a determined manner and eyes that gave the impression of being newly interested. Strangely enough, it was not Claire's observation that interested her, but the soft interest that love would awaken. But something almost stern.

As the three Americans prepared for departure Norine whispered: "Listen! Everything is all right. We're not going around the Dauntless at all; she's here as a blind."

"Are you sure?" O'Reilly shot her a quick glance.

"Major Ramos himself gave that story to the newspapers; it's all a part of his plan. I promised not to tell, but—I just can't help myself. Gee! I'm having a good time."

Leslie Branch shook his head mournfully. "You may enjoy it, but I don't," he grumbled. "Well, end it by being plucked, and that will finish me. One week in a damp cell, with my lungs—"

O'Reilly, whose spirits had risen magically, clapped him heartily on the back, crying: "Congratulations! You're feeling better."

at a bridge spanning one of the deep Southern rivers. In the stream below, dimly outlined in the gloom, lay the Fair Play, a small tramp steamer; her crew were up and awake. The new arrivals were hurried aboard, and within a half-hour she was feeling her way seaward.

With daylight, caution gave way to haste, and the rusty little tramp began to drive forward for all she was worth. She cleared the three-mile limit safely and then turned south. Not a craft was in sight; not a smudge of smoke discolored the skyline.

It had been a trying night for the filibusters, and when the low constellations were dropped astern they began to think of sleep. Breakfast of a sort was served on deck, after which those favored ones who had berths sought them, while their less fortunate companions stretched out wherever they could find a place.

Johnnie O'Reilly was elated. Already he could see the hills of Cuba dozing behind their purple veils; in fancy he felt the fierce white heat from close-waited streets, and scented the odors of "managly" swamps. He heard the caustic sighing of the royal palms. How he had hungered for it all; how he had raged at his delays!

It had seemed so small a matter to return; it had seemed so easy to seek out Rosa and to save her! Yet the days had grown into weeks; the weeks had aged into months. Well, he had done his best; he had never rested from the moment of Rosa's first appeal. Her enemies had felled him once, but there would be no turning back this time—rather a firing squad or a dungeon in Cabañas than that.

CHAPTER XIII.

The City Among the Leaves and the City of Beggars.

The night was moonless and warm. An impenetrable haze dimmed the star-glow, only the diffused illumination of the open sea enabled the passengers of the Fair Play to identify that blacker darkness on the horizon ahead of them as land. Major Ramos was on the bridge with the captain. Two men were taking soundings in a blind search for that steep wall which forms the side of the old Bahama channel. When the land finally gave them warning, the Fair Play lost her headway and came to a stop, rolling lazily.

Major Ramos spoke in a low tone from the darkness above, calling for a volunteer boat's crew to reconnoiter and to look for an opening through the reef. Before the words were out of his mouth O'Reilly had offered himself.

Ten minutes later he found himself at the steering oar of one of the ship's lifeboats, heading shoreward. There was a long night's work ahead; time passed, and so O'Reilly altered his course and cruised along outside the white water, urging his crew to luster strokes.

A mile—two miles—it seemed like ten to the taut oarsmen, and then a black hiatus of still water showed in phosphorescent foam. O'Reilly explored it briefly; then he turned back toward the ship. Soon he and his crew were aboard and the ship was groping her way toward the break in the reef. Meanwhile, her deck became a scene of feverish activity; out from her hold came cases of ammunition and medical supplies; the fieldpiece on the bow was hurriedly dismounted; the small boats, of which there was an extra number, were swung out, with the result that when the Fair Play had maneuvered as close as she dared everything was in readiness.

O'Reilly took the first load through, and discharged it upon a sandy beach. Every man tumbled overboard and waded ashore with a packing case; he dropped this in the sand above high-tide mark, and then ran back for another. It was swift, hot work. From the darkness on each side came the sounds of other boat crews similarly engaged.

Daylight was coming when the last boat cast off and the Fair Play, with a hoarse, triumphant blast of her whistle, faded into the north, her part in the expedition at an end.

Dawn showed the voyagers that they were indeed fortunate, for they were upon the mainland of Cuba, and as far as they could see, both east and west, the reef was unbroken. Men were lolling about, exhausted, but Major Ramos allowed them no time for rest; he roused them, and kept them on the go until the priceless supplies had been collected within the shelter of the brush. Then he broke open certain packages and distributed arms among his followers.

The three Americans, who were munching a tasteless breakfast of pilot bread, were joined by Major Ramos. "I am dispatching a message to General Gomez headquarters, asking him to send a pack train and an escort for these supplies. There is danger here; perhaps you would like to go on with the couriers."

O'Reilly accepted eagerly; then thinking of the girl, he said doubtfully:

"I'm afraid Miss Evans isn't equal to the trip."

"Nonsense! I'm equal to anything," Norine declared. And indeed she looked capable enough as she stood there in her short walking suit and stout boots.

Branch alone declined the invitation, vowing that he was too weak to budge. If there was the faintest prospect of riding to the interior he infinitely preferred to await the opportunity, he said, even at the risk of an attack by Spanish soldiers in the meantime.

It took O'Reilly but a short time to collect the few articles necessary for the trip; indeed, his bundle was so small that Norine was dismayed.

"Can't I take any clothes?" she inquired in a panic. "I can't live without a change."

"It is something you'll have to learn," he told her. "An insurrection with two shirts is wealthy. Some of them haven't any."

Dinner Stories

"Have you seen the presents, old chap?" said Mr. Nabob to a nervous guest at his daughter's wedding.

"No, but I'd like to awfully," said the nervous guest.

"Well, just wait a moment and I'll get a detective to show you around," cordially said Mr. Nabob.

The young private had been posted as sentry on B squadron stables. But when the sergeant of the guard came around on his visit he was nowhere to be seen. The sergeant was about to depart to make inquiries when there came a rustling noise from a heap of straw and the sentry stood before him minus his boots and looking very sleepy.

"Halloa!" cried the sergeant, "where were you when I came around just now?"

"Marching round," was the sentry's reply, given in tones of conscious virtue.

"Marchin' round, were you? Why, you've got your boots off!"

"Yes, sergeant; I took 'em off so that I wouldn't wake the bloomin' 'orses!"

In a recent examination of a boy clerk's post was the question: "If the premier and all the members of the cabinet should die, who would officiate?"

Robert, a boy of fourteen, thought for a time, trying in vain to recall who came next in succession. At last a happy inspiration came to him and he answered: "The undertaker."

A colored recruit said he intended to take out the full limit of Government insurance, $10,000. On being told by a fellow soldier that he would be foolish to pay on so much when he was likely to be shot in the trenches, he replied: "Fuh! I reckon I knows what I'm doin'." You all don't 'spose Uncle Sam is gwine to put a $10,000 man in the first-line trenches, do yuh?"

A Beautiful Complexion For Only 30 Cents

"Keep on using expensive creams and washes and cosmetics if you want to," says Peterson. "It's none of my business how you squander your money, but if you really want to get rid of pimples, facial blemishes of any kind or any skin disease, my honest advice is to get a thirty-cent box of Peterson's Ointment today."

Men and women: If you want a complexion clean and clear, soft and velvety; one that will compel the admiration of all the people you meet; start to use Peterson's Ointment tonight—use it freely, rubbing well into the skin. Continue for a week or until every pimple, blackhead, eruption or rash is gone.

Don't fail to try it and you can take my word for it you'll be proud of your lovely skin and your friends will envy your bewitching complexion. Any fair-minded druggist will back up what Peterson says because he is authorized to return your money without question if Peterson's Ointment does not make good.

Don't Be Like Her.

There are any number of pitfalls waiting the girl who is always setting her mother right, and who bemoans the fact that her parents are "so old-fashioned." And there is no better safeguard against the world's evils than confidence in a girl's heart that mother knows best.—Exchange.

MR. GEISLER SAYS

Dec. 20, 1916.

NUJOL LABORATORIES,
STANDARD OIL CO. (New Jersey),
BAYONNE, N. J.

Gentlemen:—

I am pleased to state that I find Nujol a top notcher, having tried a great many other remedies which can come nowhere near yours.

Yours truly,

Conrad Geisler.

3 Donnell Place,
Maspeth, Long Island.

Are you free enough from constipation to feel such enthusiasm as Mr. Geisler puts into this short endorsement of Nujol? You certainly can be, too! But you must first overcome constipation, the poisonous source of more than a score of serious bodily ailments. Resolve today to be one of the countless healthy thousands who now insure natural bowel regularity simply by the use of Nujol.

Nujol relieves chronic or occasional constipation at all ages. You can depend on its gentle and safe action: no griping; no physicing; no dangerous reaction. It is pleasant to take; positively pure, drugless and tasteless. The mild, effective remedy for young and old. Avoid harmful pills and physics. Use Nujol and be "regular as clockwork."

ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS
There are no substitutes—there is only Nujol

At every drug store. Send 50c. and we will ship new kit size to soldiers or sailors anywhere.

Regular as Clockwork

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

DINNER—For a delicious tasty dinner eat at the SAVOY CAFE, 24 S. Main St. 25c and up.

Duty—Honor—Faith—Action

There are some men who actually think they have done something "smart" to have missed the Liberty Bond Committee and evading purchasing.

There are other men who have purchased a $50 Bond—just enough to take off the curse—and who are amply able to have taken ten times that amount.

There are men right in this town who would rejoice to see the "Beast from Berlin" dominate this country. Fortunately they are known!

What should be done with this class of unworthies?

They should be looked upon as enemies of our boys who are fighting to save the world from the dominion of a tyrant who blasphemously styles himself "Divinely appointed."

They should be treated as outcasts, unworthy of the society and respect of decent men.
What ought we to do to help finance the war?

The boys who have gone over there are giving a full 100 per cent. The women who have gone into hospital work back of the firing line are giving 100 per cent.

The man or woman who has a bullet-proof job 3,000 miles from the firing line and who is buying the smallest possible amount of Liberty Bonds and, who is sacrificing nothing, and getting away with it, is a slacker and worse.

The farmer who says, "I can't afford to buy a Liberty Bond, but I will raise grain," is not doing his duty. Does he intend to give half of his crop as his contribution to his Government?

OH, NO!

He expects to sell it at twice the price he would have received for it before the war. Can you figure out how such a farmer is doing his full duty?

Farmer, Business Man, Wage Earner—everybody who has the control of money or credit, should use it and DO IT NOW for his country and Government.

In buying Liberty Bonds, the purchaser is not only doing a patriotic duty, but is buying the highest class secured paper in the world and gets 4½ per cent.

In the words of President Cleveland, "It is a condition and not a theory, which confronts us."
Shall we not have the courage and inclination to do our share?
